Holy Land peacemakers tour the UK

Two respected and leading grassroots mediators from Jerusalem are in the UK to talk about their 'bridge-building' work in the Holy Land.

Presented by Campusalam and the Spirit of Peace Organisation, a series of events are taking place across the UK including universities and community venues in Bristol, Gerrard's Cross, Coventry, London, Norwich and Oxford. The tour started on 15 March and ends on 24 March.

In light of the growing social polarisation in the UK following the recent events in Gaza, Jerusalem Peacemakers will discuss the impact of the recent war in the Holy Land, on renewed efforts for peace building and reconciliation in its wake and how individuals in the UK can help.

Speakers at the event will include Eliyahu McLean, an orthodox Jew, and Sheikh Abdul Aziz Bukhari, a Sufi Muslim, both co-directors of Jerusalem Peacemakers, an internationally respected network supporting reconciliation projects and initiatives involving both Israeli and Palestinian communities.
